Stuttgart, 24.04.2026 – BISON, the crypto trading platform for retail investors of Boerse Stuttgart Group, is expanding its offering today and now provides customers with access to simple and reliable staking with Solana (SOL). BISON customers can participate in staking with a minimum amount of just 0.1 SOL and receive weekly rewards. Staking rewards are incentives for supporting a blockchain network in achieving consensus and validating transactions.

Almost half of crypto investors in the DACH region already use staking services.[1] "By expanding our staking offering to include Solana, we are meeting the growing interest of our BISON customers in staking as part of a trusted, simple, and secure offering. The advantages of staking with BISON include low minimum amounts as well as crypto custody in Germany by Boerse Stuttgart Digital Custody GmbH, which is licensed under MiCAR," says Ulli Spankowski, CEO and Co-Founder of BISON.

Solana staking with BISON is available in the mobile app and web version for users residing in Germany. The current annual percentage rate (APR) for staking Solana ranges between 4% and 8% and is determined variably by the blockchain protocol. BISON currently offers staking for Ethereum and Solana, with plans to expand the range of supported cryptocurrencies in the future.
